Dear Paul. I've just realised that I have forgotten my purse. I'm very sorry about this. I must have left it at home. Please could you withdraw money for me as well? I will give you the money back tomorrow at the latest. Many thanks.

Question 7

Dear John,

Many thanks for your letter. Of course, I can help you! I suggest you talk about Brittany. It is like a "neighbour" of Great Britain, so to say, and the Breton coast looks like Cornwall's. There are of course some typical things that you can find or eat. You can visit the famous "menhirs", for instance. These are some huge standing stones that are supposed to have been erected by our ancestors. It is very impressive. "Crêpes" and "galettes" are the traditional dishes there. It can be compared to your pancakes. You can eat salty or sweet sorts and drink some cider with it.

Kind regards

Question 8

I really like spending my holidays in England. First of all, it is not so far away from France and it is very convenient to travel up there. Secondly, it is a beautiful country which offers a lot of possibilities. I really like the great variety of things that you can see there. Tourists can visit big cities or small towns, as well as the countryside or even go to the beach. London is great; one can discover a lot of different cultures in one city. I must say that I like not only the country but also the language. I learn English at school and spending my holidays in England is the best way to improve.

Example: Which bike are they looking for?

- Charlotte: Nicolas, where is your bike? There are so many bikes, I can't find yours!
- Nicolas: my bike is blue and has a basket on the rack.
- Charlotte: sorry, but I only see red bikes!
- Nicolas: no, look behind the tree... here is my bike!

The answer is A. Look at the three pictures for question 1 now.

1. What is in the fridge?

- Boy: Hi Mum, I'm hungry !
- Mum: I'm just cooking something; you have to wait for a little bit. If you're hungry, take something from the fridge. There should be some vegetables in it. I bought some salad and tomatoes yesterday.
- Boy: well... there are only some eggs in the fridge...

2. What time is Tom's Spanish lesson ?

- Tom: it's already 10 o'clock, I'm late!
- Jen: late? But the Spanish begins at 3 this afternoon.
- Tom: no! Our teacher left a note on the board. Today, the lesson starts at 11!

3. Which book does Charlotte buy for her mother?

- Charlotte: Which book should I get for my mum? I thought I could buy a novel but I realise that she doesn't really speak English. So it may be too difficult for her.
- Nicolas: why don't you choose a recipe book? English specialities taste quite good, don't they?
- Charlotte: Yes, but I think she won't be able to understand all the recipes. Look! Here is an atlas. She loves geography and even if she doesn't understand a word, she can have a look at the pictures!

4. What was the weather like, yesterday?

Yesterday, I had a date with my girlfriend. For some reason, she was really late and I had to wait more than one hour in the front of the cinema. It was so hot! I was sweating; I was thirsty and had nothing to drink. I was relieved when I saw her!

5. Where did Nicolas go on holiday?

- Charlotte: I'm glad to see you again! How was your holiday? You were in London, weren't you?
- Nicolas: no, we only spent a night in London on our way to Liverpool. We took the Eurostar from Paris to London and a day later, we took the train to Liverpool.
- Charlotte: I've also been to Liverpool once; Even though the city is smaller, it is as nice as London!

6. Which National museum did Charlotte and Nicolas visit in Liverpool?

Today, we planned a guided tour in Liverpool but it was raining. So we decided to visit a museum. In Liverpool, there are 7 national museums. We first thought that we would visit the slavery museum, but we didn't feel like seeing something really serious. We wanted to visit the museum of Liverpool but it was closed. Finally, we went to the Walker art gallery. It was great!

7. What does Nicolas buy?

- Nicolas: Hold on, Charlotte! I have to buy something for my grandpa! He will turn 70 next week. I've just seen some beautiful books in a library.
- Charlotte: don't buy him any books, he won't understand the language! Buy him a souvenir of Liverpool.
- Nicolas: No, he has enough stuff at home. What about a perfume?
- Charlotte: oh yes, that's a good idea!

Why Macca won't touch a Big Mac?

"We were eating roast lamb for Sunday lunch and it was the lambing season and there were all these beautiful little lambs gamboling around.

Then we just looked at the lamb on our plate and looked at them outside again and thought "we're eating one of those little things that is gaily running around outside". It just struck us, and we said "Wait a minute maybe we don't want to do this".

And that was it, that was the big turning point and we said we'd give up meat.

The difficult thing was that immediately there was a hole in the middle of the plate every time you came to have a meal.

Gradually Linda started to fill it with spaghetti or a bit of quiche, then egg dishes and cheese pies and it started to get really good and tasty. Plus I brought in a lot of the English stuff; mashed potatoes and rice pudding.

Anyway, little by little she just sort of filled in and we never noticed not having meat.

Once we started looking for them, we discovered a whole range of vegetarian products.

Then what happens is that you really get into it and start becoming activist because you realise that what you're doing is helping to save these poor animals from getting shunted into a slaughterhouse. And so the spiritual side of your life changes.

What happens, like me and like Linda and like most of us, you grow up with your Mum and Dad saying "Eat your meat it's good for you" and, secondly, it's our tradition to do so. We're British and British people eat meat steeped in our traditions, and that is a very important thing in people's consciousness. The other great thing is that our tradition is changing. You would never have seen wine on the table when we were kids. Now even ordinary British people can have a bottle of wine with their meals. It's like you would never have seen us eating curries when I was a kid, but we all do now. So along with all that I think it's perfectly feasible for people to change.

I think there's going to be some very interesting developments in maybe 10, 20, 30 years."

This is truly an international event with bands from over 20 countries and also live gigs, exhibitions, video shows, sightseeing tours and a convention.

Each day has its highlight. On Wednesday, the festival begins. Live bands are playing in the cavern club and in the cavern pub. On Thursday, live bands are playing from midnight onwards. On Friday night is the Beatles night. Very exciting! On Saturday, you can assist with a concert in the philharmonic hall. Sunday is the day of the Beatles convention. Monday's highlight is the Matthew Street festival, which is a must when you are in Liverpool. Tuesday is the last day of the festival; live bands are playing all day and all night. - Charlotte: The Liverpool airport, called John Lennon airport, is really nice. It's quite small, but you can find everything you want.
- Nicolas: yes, it's OK but it is quite far away from the town centre. That's why I don't really like flying.
- Charlotte: well, I think flying is the best way to travel, especially to England, since it is an island.
- Nicolas: yes, but for me, going to an island can be fun: I like traveling on a ferry boat. That's quite exciting!
- Charlotte: I hate ferries, I'm sea sick!
- Nicolas: well, ok, you'd better fly then!
- Charlotte: My dad takes the train to go to London, the Eurostar. It seems to be OK.
- Nicolas: Taking the train to London is a good idea, because you arrive directly in the city centre and you don't waste your time in shuttles from the airport.
- Charlotte: OK, but then, how do you go to Liverpool?
- Nicolas: well, you take another train to Liverpool. It's easy...
- Charlotte: it's not as easy as it seems, I think, because you also have to change the train station in London and it can be quite long!
- Nicolas: anyway, there are enough possibilities to travel to England. Some even takes their car on the ferry and drive up to the North.
- Charlotte: that's right, but I couldn't drive on the left side!
